Nelson Mandela

Nelson Rolihlahla Mandela (18 July 1918 – 5 December 2013) was a South African anti-apartheid revolutionary, political leader, and philanthropist who served as President of South Africa from 1994 to 1999. He was chosen as a leader for what he demonstrated remarkable leadership by being a symbol of peacemaking, forgiveness, and positive thinking. He has been a good and effective leader and his leadership style depends on motivating and inspiring the public with action. Mandela's qualities and life achievements have indeed changed the heart of many not only in his country but also around the world.

Mandela embraced various styles but the most prominent one of them was the transformational style and he had many traits like inspiring, ability to see the big picture, focus on goals and missions beyond himself, remarkable endurance, grit and determination, humility, hopefulness, and patience.

As an influential leader, Mandela was able to lead his country to nearly-liberated from prejudice. As a significant leader, he elevated his followers' consciousness by appealing to their higher values and ideals, even encouraging many to educate themselves, as it would be the key to success. In 1952, Mandela opened the first African legal practice together with his partner, Oliver Tambo, where he was the volunteer-in-chief of the campaign, traveling across the country to raise people's awareness and organize confrontation to prejudiced regulation. Also, he succeeded in promoting the Freedom Charter that was also adopted by the ANC.

I have qualities of both Participative and Transformational Leader my strength is to inspire and motivate followers, strong interpersonal and communication skills, ability to manage stress, Multitasking ability, Understand the strengths and weaknesses of members which I can guide them to achieve our goals as a team.
