An integrative and close relationship

For example

In the production function, the components of the administrative process are applied from production planning (setting production goals - determining production types and quantities - preparing production programs - preparing operating schedules - preparing maintenance plans).

And also the administrative function of organization is applied in the production function, and this is called production organization in terms of distributing work to production departments, defining the responsibilities of production departments and defining the necessary powers for production departments so that we can implement production plans.

And also through the application of the administrative function of leading in the production function in terms of informing production departments of their responsibilities and powers, leading production teams towards the goal, and motivating workers in production departments to exert their maximum potential.

Also, the managerial function of control is applied to the production function in terms of setting control parameters (production rates, defective production ratios, etc.)

Then he revealed the deviations between planned and already achieved production, the causes of the deviations and the necessary recommendations regarding them.
