All the best.

Saudi Telecom Company (STC) Is the biggest telecom company in Saudi Arabia. As it is a company, it has many projects it has many risks associated with them.

Installing the new technology is always bringing benefits for telecom companies. When STC invests 5G towers in Saudi Arabia, they face all types of risk: compliance, hazard, control, and opportunity risks. Installing the new 5G tower requires installing new software and towers. All this installation and working during the day and night, STC faces a compliance risk related to all legal requirements to maintain a safe and clean site. New towers could involve opportunity risk. Meanwhile, installing the required towers, the company has to keep the 4G signal for all users and control the risk of cutting the old tower or replacing them with the new one. During the installations, the risks exposed to hazard risk. Building the new tower could fall and it could cut all the signals from the users and could harm the company reputation in the short term. Also, it could be beyond the short time and could be a very long one if they are facing the same issue for each tower.

STC is facing all kinds of risks, and they always monitoring the projects and its risks by hiring the best-talented managers and hiring experienced consultants. For example, to change a tower in a site, they transfer the signal to the nearest tower to keep all the user signal safe and in work condition. STC also built the 5G tower in the busy area and kept the old tower in function order until they made sure the new tower was working.
