First of all, the manager must have some personal qualities in order to facilitate the management process. To define the project manager it is The person who is responsible for supervising a systems project from initiation to conclusion. Also, the manager must be a person who has good implementation. In management, everyone can gain some qualities to finish the job, but it is better if the qualities are part of his/her skills.

As a project manager my plan is supposed to anticipate all possibilities for any change that might happen. If we anticipate all the possibilities, we will have no difficulty resolving them. The goal is to complete the task in a limited period of time, so I worked on communicating with all employees and built a good relationship within the work. After the meeting I had with the employees, we identified our need for new employees and as a team we set the required standards in the recruitment process.

As a manager I want to be very specific on the requirement because the work will be easier if everyone works in their place. my management policy is to be very close to my teamwork in order to know their strengths and weaknesses to work on development and support to handling them.
