

In the problem statement, emphasize the problems and challenges in the existing solutions. Include relevant references to support the problem statement.

For the research objectives:

Begin each objective with "To" followed by an action verb, ensuring alignment with the challenges highlighted in the problem statement.

Limit the number of objectives to three, avoiding sub-bullets for each objective.

Start with the main goal of the research, followed by specific objectives to achieve this goal. For instance, the main goal could be presented as research objective #3.
