Diversity of leadership style and its effect on motivation

Introduction:

In the modern era, the interest in leadership and the types of leaders has become greater than what was previously mentioned, and there are many studies on its types and their importance to organizations, and interest has become greater in the behavior of leaders and their influence on organizations and countries.

In this paper, we will deal with two types of leaders, which is the democratic leader and the easy-going leader, and how this difference in styles affected the team in productivity and motivation.

In the company (N,V), the leader is characterized by two types of leaders. He was a leader of the democratic type by making decisions and involving the team in making decisions and holding daily meetings to listen to the team and follow up on the progress of work and involve them in ideas, decision-making, motivation and setting material rewards. For the employee who makes a new contract agreement with clients, but when a problem arises with clients, he turns into a kind of Laissez-Fair and withdraws himself from interference in solving problems and transfers decisions to employees to take the appropriate action without referring to him.

Previous scientific study:

The best methods of motivation are in which the individual feels that he is appreciative of his giving and prepares for him the elements of competitive creativity, which is a force that gives the individual to perform at his best if he can direct it properly.

research goal:

The research aims to clarify the role that the leadership style plays in activating creativity and developing business organizations, as it gives them a competitive advantage that leads them to reach leadership and stay in them to face competition, this forces them to constantly think to find solutions to overcome difficulties and adapt to the changes and fluctuations in their internal environment and foreign.

Methodology:

- Make a comparison between two styles of leadership, which are the Democratic and the Laissez-Fair

Democratic style	Laissez- fair style
• Relies on skills and knowledge of team members. • Holds final responsibly. • Team harmony. • Productivity.	• Management trusts the team member to make decisions, meaningful progress. • Empowerment for followers. • Individual. • Harmony. • Productivity.

- Motivation:
Individuals differ in motivation drive, motivation varies from situation to situation, Motivation is among the reasons for increasing the employee's enthusiasm, as he works to activate the inherent capabilities of the human being and make him fully energized and conscious and cheer himself up for work, as motivation is one of the most important factors affecting the development and advancement of work and achieving a remarkable increase in production, so the person is characterized by a sense and a sense of appreciation, reward and motivation These matters constitute a strong motivation for him to increase his enthusiasm, as it guarantees the continuation of giving, the development of the level, the raising of efficiency and the feeling of psychological reassurance, and therefore motivation is the opportunity for institutions to achieve their distinction and development.

There are two types of motivation:

- Financial

They are annual wages and bonuses, and wage increases to meet the increase in living expenses, bonuses and profit sharing, health insurance, compensation, benefits in kind of material value.

- Moral

Promotion, respect and appreciation of workers efforts, work stability, work enrichment, and improvement of working conditions.

Results & discussion:

Motivation are one of the determinants of institutional work, without them no institution can achieve its full goals, Motivation is the way in which the organization expresses its appreciation for the performance of the employee motivation.

Motivation is related to the manner and the administrative process by which the program is managed in the institution, as well as the means used to serve it.

Motivation is the main engine for employees, and it is what entails the employee's survival or his transfer to other workplaces.

Therefore, we see large companies that provided employees with a comfortable work environment by adding motivation to make the employee stick to a place of work.
