The leader I have chosen is: Ahmed bin Mazen Al-Shugairi.

The reason for choosing: his way of proposing the idea as well as his failed life that he turned into success and charity.

The most prominent of his characteristics. Attractive strong charisma as well as his aspiration to move forward in achieving instills of morals and good qualities among members of society ... I chose Ahmed Al Shugairi's style of throwing an idea and personal charisma which is the key to acceptance from others, and I think it is the most effective characteristic for a team generation to rise in the mud of darkness. Likewise, his targeting of all sects of Arab peoples and of different generations with tolerance and a kind word ..

The most beautiful thing about that is lack of despair, as he has faced pressures in a society that considers customs as the most important of taboos and that development should take place and that we do not live under the cover of ignorance, eating, sleeping and having children only, but rather we develop ourselves In order for the next generation to benefit from this and to preserve this land that God has given us, thus achieving a balance between development and preserving the teachings of the Islamic bear

My person's leadership style is focused on not placing myself in a position greater than others so that I can understand and share their ideas ... Sometimes it got right and at other times it fails, and the reason revolves around the lack of determination of the decision to formalize or amicable. But he who does not fail does not succeed, so I learn every day that leadership is a school with the leader in the home, the school, the state, and even the leader of the soul. We are all leaders and we must always develop in ourselves in that aspect.
